

Living Modified Organism (LMO)

Living — in essence, capable of living in the natural environment (open field, etc.)

Modified – genetically modified either by technology for processing nucleic acid extracellularly or by technology for fusing cells or organisms belonging to different taxonomical families.

Organism - a single cell or a cell colony, which has the capacity to transfer or replicate nucleic acid, including viruses and viroids.

